2018 Incremental Development Alliance Workshop

The Incremental Development Alliance (IncDev) is a national nonprofit with a mission to provide educational training and coaching in small scale development techniques, cultivating thousands of small scale real estate developers in communities across North America.

IncDev (incrementaldevelopment.org) believes the neighborhood is the scale at which people, place, and the local economy come together. By building the knowledge of regular citizens to become developers of their own communities, wealth building occurs for families, and the overall quality of life increases for cities and towns as a whole.

IncDev uses a workshop curriculum that teaches strategies to formulate real estate projects appropriate for the neighborhood scale, utilizing the power of incremental development over time to build an economically healthy place. The Workshop welcomes a range of attendees, from those who have zero experience to others with considerable experience, to further exposure in concepts of real estate, design, construction, and property management.

For any questions regarding the workshop or registration, please contact Michelle McBeath, ULI Oklahoma Manager (michelle.mcbeath@uli.org).
