JOIN US FOR NIEA'S EDUCATOR DAY
AT THE 53RD ANNUAL CONVENTION & TRADE SHOW

NATIONAL INDIAN EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Re: Letter of Invitation to attend the 53rd National Indian Education Association Annual Convention & Trade Show Educator Day (October 5, 2022) in Oklahoma City, OK.

On behalf of the National Indian Education Association, we would like to officially invite K-12 educators to participate at the 53rd National Indian Education Association Annual Convention & Trade Show Educator Day on October 5th, 2022. This event will be held at two locations: the Oklahoma City Convention Center, 100 Mick Cornett Drive, Oklahoma City, OK 73109, and the First Americans Museum (FAM), 659 First Americans Blvd, Oklahoma City, OK 73129.

The purpose of Educator Day is to bring teachers and instructional leaders together for a day of exciting keynotes, breakout sessions, and giveaways. Not only do we want to thank our educators for their dedication, but we are also providing a range of professional development on culturally responsive teaching, representation in the classroom, interventions in math and literacy, wellness for educators, and education sovereignty.

We will also have some of our education partners on site with fantastic giveaways and a mobile bookstore. At our Convention Center event, NIEA is excited to announce our keynote panelists which Oklahoma include authors Traci Sorrell and Kim Rogers, as well as artist and author, Steven Paul Judd. At the FAM event, Dr. Cornel Pewewardy will keynote, and the sessions will focus on Oklahoma social studies resources and hot topics. Altogether, Educator Day will feature two learning events representing over 45 breakout sessions with a range of topics from a variety of guest presenters. Lunch is also provided.

Registration is Free!

Should you require more information about Educator Day, please visit our website at <https://www.niea.org/2022educator-day-1-1> or email cwise@niea.org.
